In April 2009, HSE published this new version of its approved health and safety poster and leaflet. The new version is modern, eye-catching and easy to read. It sets out in simple terms, using numbered lists of basic points, what employers and workers must do, and tell you what to do if there is a problem.

Employers can, if they wish, continue to use their existing versions of poster and leaflet until 5 April 2014, as long as they are readable and the addresses of the enforcing authority and the Employment Medical Advisory Service up to date. This information can be obtained from HSE's Info-line on 0845 345 0055.
